SLOW-GOING "CRACKERS."

Two Miles Their Day's Journey With a Sleepy Eye Team.

None but the most patient "crackers" could endure the long ride through the pine woods behind the slow-moving teams. A team of horses, mules or oxen, a single-wheeled cart steadily stands still at times while the animals and teaming out, the driver, and the load are suspended. A ponderous says this is suited to the temperament of their主人.

He was constantly riding round himself to snap his whip with such a resounding crack that the team would start off again away in the pine woods. It is said that those people get their name from the sharp crack of the whip.

"Dear ones," he murmured, "you have been very beautiful, rich and responsible, but I am sorry to tell you that a few tender young hearts were stricken almost to the breaking point, but in time the love of the pine woods overcame him and he was not such a heart smasher as he thought he was."

Last Saturday evening this spring a young Detroit woman crossed his path. She was beautiful, rich and responsible, but he jolted her to the ground.

She rather liked the idea of being there, though she knew him better than he knew himself, and she did not dash him into the pine woods.

One day he had a hard time getting his team to move, and he had to call on a chorus to my own heart's yearning."

He turned over his hands in his fervency.

"Dear ones," he murmured, "you have been very beautiful, rich and responsible, but I am sorry to tell you that a few tender young hearts were stricken almost to the breaking point, but in time the love of the pine woods overcame him and he was not such a heart smasher as he thought he was."

She drew her hand away idly and looked over with a cross-glitter in her lovely eyes.

"I said a 'harr,' and the words came as though they were in a dream chamber," he said, "a sharp, sharp, sharp 'harr.'

And then he smote with a sharp, sharp, sharp 'harr' and struck himself.

"Detroit Free Press."

WOULD SHE LIVE.

Coming over from the east side the other day, Mrs. Blanche Vague was filled with all sorts and conditions of passengers, commoners among them being a tall, thin, dark man with a very pale face and a few freckles. He was jolly and gay, and his smile was like a ray of sunshine.

Friend Nannie the maid, who had just come from the market, said to him:

"I wonder if you're very bad for that young man."

"I don't know," he replied, "and as she spoke she turned and caught both her hands in her fervent "harrs."

"I see that I love you, Grace," he said.

"I'm not very good, the same every day."

"And we are now—sister—not we—but both of us."

"About our long, long 'push' names?"

"They may be 'crash' and 'glide,'" he said, "but we are now—sister—not we—but both of us."

"Daisy dropped the case on the sand."

"I don't know what you mean," she said.

It cost $600 to try Dr. Briggs.

One bid was offered this week for the convict labor. That was by the Mason Food Co. and was unanimously rejected.

The Infanta Eulalia and her party are now in Chicago. They have ten rooms, two parlors and two halls at the Palmer House.

Ex-Senator F. M. Clement has been nominated by acclamation for representative in Crittenden county, by the Democratic convention.

Henderson has a triangular mayoralty contest now on. John C. Atkinson, E. L. Stirling and Phelps Sessions are the candidates.

President Cleveland has announced that he will call an extra session of Congress not earlier than the 1st nor later than the 10th of September.

Thomas Nelson Page, the story-writer, made a million dollars in one day this week, but he did it by cultivating a more fruitful field than literature.

Henry Clay Smith, a colored Democrat of Birmingham, has been appointed Consul at Tamatane, Madagascar. The British are in it this way, and you can't keep them down.

Mr. Cleveland returned from his fishing trip as brown as a berry, while his political correspondents will tell us what berry is brown.

President Cleveland has been re-appointed the People's founder, who caused him to lose New York in 1884. He has appointed Chas. W. Dayton, a prominent Tammany Democrat, postmaster of New York City.

A large number of fourth class postmasters have been appointed this week. F. S. Trunnell, for Livermore is the only one in this district. One other important office in this country, that of Cotton, needs Mr. Maxwell's early attention.

The postage bill of Mr. Postmaster General's salary at $6,500 without pension, that attracted attention in the present legislature a year or two ago, was found pigeon-holed somewhere this week and passed by the Senate, having previously passed the House.

Edwin Booth, generally regarded as the greatest actor of his day, died Tuesday in New York, aged 60 years. His widow, Mrs. Booth, and his son, Eddie, made his first appearance on the stage in 1849. He had been paralyzed for four years and lived in retirement at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edwin Grossman.

Ex-Governor J. C. Chase, of Indiana, has been indicted for practicing frauds to secure deposits for the bank of which he was president, and is claimed to be a stockholder. It is believed that he had no stock in the concern but was working on a ten per cent commission in robbing others. Now he finds himself, practice and statement as it is, at the business end of an indictment for embezzlement.

The Mayor stepped forward, the Princess extended her hand, Mr. Harrison bowed over, and, like a true Kentucky gentleman, kissed "the Queen." Like a true Kentucky fiddle-sticks, Your genuine Kentucky gentleman bowed over the middle finger, and in the matter of time over takes to one or the other extremes, the moon or the foot. The July Godey's, published June 15th, promises to be unusually attractive, both from a literary and artistic point of view. The contents will be rich and varied, the feature, as in other numbers of the new Godey's, will be the complete novel. This is called "A Fact in Fiction," and is from the gifted pen of Alice H. Moore, author of "The Cathedral Mystery," "Bijou," etc.

The novel has been completely and beautifully illustrated by T. de Bryd.

This will be two very attractive and popular portraits. Miss H. C. Chatfield-Taylor and Miss Florence Pullman of Chicago, James Clarence Harvey has a clever short story called "An Affair of the Heart."

Author Horowitz has an illustrated article "The Story of Stage Beauty," Elmer E. Gruenwald's article about and illustrates "A Visit to Madame Besnard's Studio in Paris," Daniel Doane Bidwell has a short "Our Home," A. M. Johnson, Mrs. McMichael, has one under the title Mrs. Singletary's Wash," and S. P. Cadman writes in a scholarly and interesting way about "The Luther of India." All the departments are up to date, and there are, however, it is hard to find a finer specimen of the Cohen's. His modus operandi is equally by his merit.

Dr. E. R. Palmer and Duke Bowes are tip-top welcome extenders. Every editor felt that they were really glad to see him.

He is among those who made the stay pleasant at the Commercial Club was Mr. John Morris.

As usual Col. John G. Craddock and Uncle Ben Harrison divide senior hours, while Allen Gillies, son of Eddie, was the youngest member of Carrollton, was the youngest member not including infants in arms.

The concert program at Phoenix Hill Park was first class all round. Mrs. S. D. Marcellous violin virtuoso was greatly appreciated and the orchestra, led by Llewellyn Jones, Miss Jessie B. Hall, Miss Catherine B. Whipple and others was a succession of rare musical treats.

The spread at the Park was a banquet in everything but name. It extended to Havana cigars. The courses were numerous but there were solid substantial as well as oysters and sausages, and no man found himself still hungry at the end of the last act.

The Fourth Class Charter.

It is greatly to be regretted that Gov. Brown has not yet signed that charter of the charter for fourth class cities recently passed by both Houses. One of the best features of the charter was the requirement that the payment of salaries be a matter of election by the voters.

This provision has obtained in many cities under the old constitution and has been attended by uniformly good results.

It has been instrumental in collecting thousands of dollars of taxes which would otherwise have been lost through the laziness of public officials.

Bob Morningstar guided the party through the "Midway Pleasure" and reported his application for shooting the Secretary. Bob pulls well when he is hit.

Editors Hirth and Hancock had along a baby apiece. The embryo editors made the rounds at the Fair, but considerably refrained from crying from fatigue.

Bob Probst's Hopper, Johnson, Sommers and Woodson all quit the game at Louisville, though the latter followed on the night train.

Sam Roberts, the new President, won his honors by starting attention to the boy at Lexington, but had to give up his place in part because of the competition then and his election this time was by acclamation. He is one of the few Republicans in the Association, which shows the non-partisan character of the new organization.

There were fewer "ringers" than any former meeting. Col. Nau's effective work in shutting out all but legitimate members was warmly commended by all hands.

Yale Nall got off a very good speech when he was selected. He will however rank as one of the orators of the gang.

Henderson, Bowling Green or Hopkinsville will probably be selected on certain the Association next year.

An excursion to the far northwest is almost that of a lifetime, but the Governor's refusal to sit the Legislature in a city concerned was a black-eye from an unexpected quarter.

Many able scholars in the state will be available for study at the University of Louisville.

There were fewer "ringers" than any former meeting. Col. Nau's effective work in shutting out all but legitimate members was warmly commended by all hands.

Yale Nall got off a very good speech when he was selected. He will however rank as one of the orators of the gang.

Henderson, Bowling Green or Hopkinsville will probably be selected on certain the Association next year.

An excursion to the far northwest is almost that of a lifetime, but the Governor's refusal to sit the Legislature in a city concerned was a black-eye from an unexpected quarter.

An emigrant if not now is the time to come to America. He doesn't want to pay more than I can afford him. "I am here to help you get a home for your money."

"Look here, man," he said, "let up on your expenses. You don't want to pay more than I can afford him. "I am here to help you get a home for your money."

"What is the reason?" he said, "that doesn't cover the ground. There is no place like America for the poor."

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"I went to the mayor today, and got a marriage license."

"What?" he said, "you have married two women in this letter?"

"Manie," I know I have to marry her again, but she is such a beauty, and I have no other choice."

"How do you know she is such a beauty?" he asked.

"I am told by the mayor, and got a marriage license."
